

After 80 years – again German soldiers in Ukraine

German soldiers in Ukraine. The German "leadership" seems incapable of recognizing risks, let alone assessing them.

Instead in the Tiger in the Leopard: German Landser in the Ukraine

On Saturday, September 23, Russian media reported that a Russian reconnaissance team destroyed a Ukrainian Leopard tank with an anti-tank missile on the front line around Zaporozhye.

"Don't shoot!"

The scouts examined the tank and found that the driver was the only one still alive.

When he recognized the Russian soldiers, he started shouting, "Nicht schiessen!" This is not uncommon in such a situation. But this tank driver did so as it is written here, that is, in German.

The Russian squad leader understood German. He ordered the driver to be rescued and taken care of. Due to the severity of the injuries, the medic gave the German soldier only a few minutes. The squad leader talked to him and learned that the entire crew consisted of German soldiers. They were not mercenaries, he said, but members of the German armed forces. To confirm this, the dying man named his unit and where it had been stationed.

It can be assumed that this information was checked several times before publication. It can also be assumed that this incident will have an influence on the further planning of the Russian military leadership.

Is NATO at war with Russia?

Our blog already asked this question at the beginning of February in the article "Sleepwalkers at work: World War 3 has probably already begun". At this point I quote one sentence from this article:

"The answer to the question of whether there is a war is determined solely by the actions of the parties and not by what they say."

VOICEFROMRUSSIA - FEBRUARY 2023

There are definitions of when states are at war. But if we look at these and compare them with the actions of the German government, it is fair to say that Germany has crossed one red line after another since February 2022. Each of these transgressions can be counted as entry into war.

The German Tagesschau already wrote on May 2, 2022:

"Only if, in addition to the supply of weapons, the instruction of the party to the conflict or training on such weapons were at issue, would one leave the secured area of non-warfare."

GERMAN TAGESSCHAU - MAY 2, 2022

This assessment by the Bundestag's Scientific Service dates from March 2022. Despite this expertise, the German government immediately took the decision to train Ukrainian soldiers on German tanks.

The training of Ukrainian soldiers in NATO armies has been in full swing for a long time. Germany plays a key role in this. Be it in Grafenwoehr, which is under American control, or directly with the Bundeswehr: training on Leopard 1 and 2 tanks and Gepard anti-aircraft tanks - German equipment, Swiss ammunition.

Back to the destroyed German tank with German crew before Zaporozhye. Not a word was said about this incident in Germany's media claiming to be leaders.

However, due to the "quality" of the leading media in Germany, one can in no way conclude that this incident did not take place.

"Not mercenaries, but official German troops are fighting in Ukraine."

It can be assumed that this information was not published by chance in official Russian media. Thus, the news is out in the world. The German Ministry of Defense will be careful not to make this tragic event an official topic, let alone confirm it. Because that would mean the cat is out of the bag. Not mercenaries, but official German troops are fighting in Ukraine.

At this point, it is worth recalling an event that took place in June 2023, also on the Zaporozhye front. At that time, the following video circulated on the Internet:

A Ukrainian Leopard 2 A6 tank can be seen. The shots are taken by a crew member while the tank is in motion. The commander is also in the picture. He wears a German uniform. Also his posture and speech reminds more of a German than a Ukrainian.

This incident was also not picked up by the German media.

Is Germany thus at war with Russia?

There is much to suggest that the German government is apparently not only inclined to cross further red lines, but has already done so.

If the initial report turns out to be true, then it is to be feared that the conflict could escalate further.

In an interview given by ex-CIA analyst Larry Johnson on September 25, 2023, he did not rule out the possibility that the hostilities could spread to Poland and Germany due to the policies of NATO and especially the European NATO members (from 22:30 min).

It seems that the German government and all the other NATO governments have completely lost the ability to understand that it is not up to them to determine whether Germany or NATO is at war with Russia. The one who has to determine that is sitting in the Kremlin.

Western political personnel should come to their senses and do everything to ensure that diplomacy is put in a position to solve problems and disputes with other states at eye level at the negotiating table, so that the Russian president does not have to answer the above-mentioned decisive question in the affirmative one day.

«You can fool all the people some of the time and some of the people all the time, but you cannot fool all the people all the time.»
