

Andreas Mylaeus and Peter Hanseler in an interview with Marina Zakamskaya

An interview about Germany and the German soul. Marina Zakamskaya asks psychologist Mylaeus and lawyer Hanseler about the state of mind of the once great Germany.

Andreas Mylaeus / Peter Hanseler

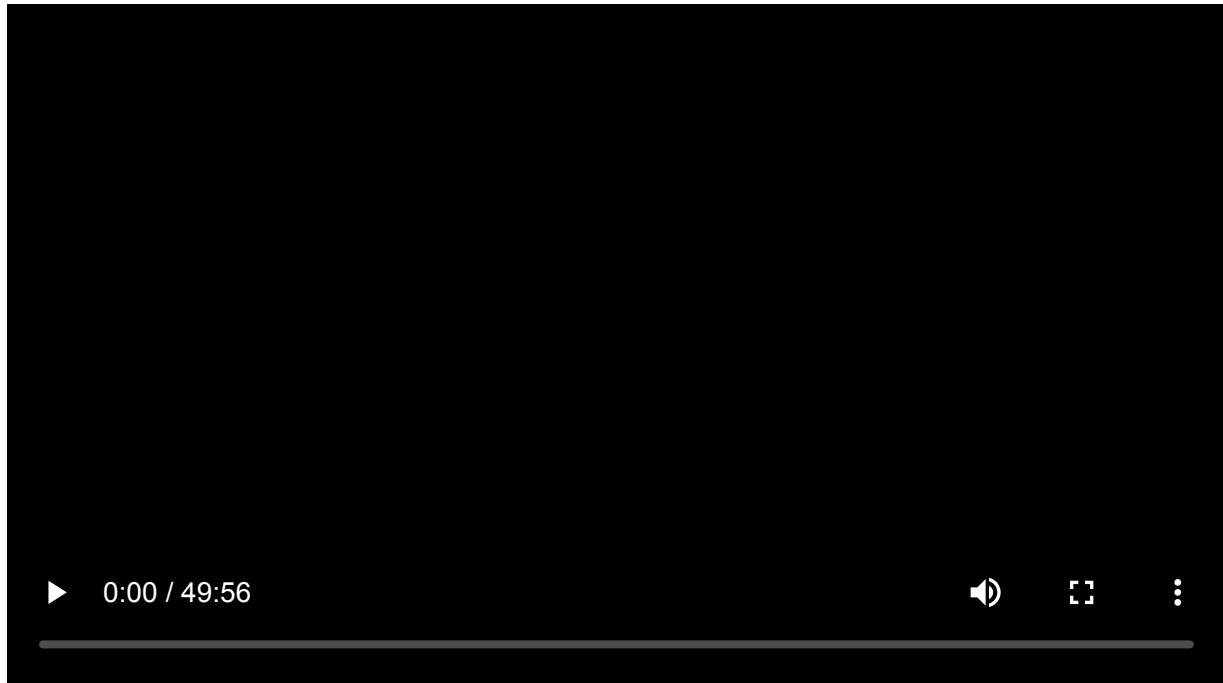

Fri 07 Feb 2025

Introduction

Dr. iur. Andreas Mylaeus was visiting Moscow for a Christmas party. However, the doctor of law and author of our blog is also a graduate psychologist and worked for many years in his own practice in Zurich. Since the behavior of the German government can hardly be described with "normal" instruments, I suggested during a conversation with Andreas - half-jokingly - that a psychologist might be able to provide help. He accepted the challenge and Marina Zakamskaya was enthusiastic and conducted the interview, as she always does: Marina is one of the most gifted interviewers I have ever encountered. An exceptional talent in calmness, aplomb and professionalism.

We wish you much enjoyment.

ARTICLE TAGS:

Interview Video Germany European Union \(EU\) Zakamskaya, Marina